3 John

3 John

This letter is to a personal friend and colleague, Gaius. It's in the first person. He is John's son in the faith and it's reported that Gaius is holding fast. It is such a joy when we discover that in the midst of chaos or children are holding to the principles we taught them.

He also provides hospitality for the itinerate teachers. There is an enemy in the camp, Diotrepthes. John has no problem citing him. And he plans to deal with him personally. Demetrius seems to be another brother Gaius can find as a cohort.

The reality is that there are truly bad actors in the faith. Unfortunately, people follow them. This will always be the case. The objective is to find those who are the same in spirit and truth. John hopes to see them soon.
